

LINES

affectionately inscribed to the memory of Gracie and her little brother, who went with the Angels to the spirit land, April 16th, 1863.

SELECTED AND ADAPTED.

Bring flowers—fresh flowers,
Aye, bring them here,
Strew them on an early bier,
Bind them around
Each marble brow,
Sleeping in death, so calmly now;
Fold them about the hands and breast;
There, O! there!
Let the sweet things rest;
Haste—gather 'round with noiseless tread,
Take the last look
Of the Beautiful Dead!

Lonely thou sleepest—yet something lies,
Too deep and still, in those soft closed eyes.
Mournful, though sweet, is thy rest to see,
Beautiful ones—as we gaze on thee!
Grief, with vain passionate tears hath wet
The hair, shedding gleams from those pale brows yet.
Love, with sad kisses unfelt, had pressed,
Those meek dropt eyelids and quiet breast,
And the glad spring, calling out bird and bee,
Shall color all blossoms, fair children, but thee!
Thou 'rt gone as the dew-drops are swept from the bough!
Oh! for the world where thou dwellest now,
How may we love, but in doubt and fear,
How may we anchor our fond hearts here;
How should e'en joy but a trembler be,
Beautiful dust, when we look on thee!
